

Presentation Instructions

All technical sessions will follow the same time schedule, with each paper receiving the same amount of time for their presentation. The program is designed for each paper to begin and end at the same time regardless of the session. Each paper has 15 minutes for their presentation and 2 minutes for questions for a total of 17 minutes per paper.

Since each paper has 2 authors it is suggested that they share this time equally. Either each author gets a separate 7+ minute talk or they both talk using a "tag team" approach. Tag team presentations are very hard to do correctly, thus we suggest you split the time equally and each talk for 7+ minutes.

There are only a few requirements for the presentation:

1. Every presentation must begin with a introduction slide that includes the name of the paper and the names of the authors,
2. Every presentation must end with a conclusion slide that summarizes the main points of the talk,
3. The number of slides is whatever is required to convey the main points of the talk,
4. The slides should not just contain text, there should be a few slides that include a figure, table or other non-text form of presenting the material,
5. Make sure you can read the text when it is presented onto the overhead screen. Check font size and color combinations. You can use the instructor computer in room 669 Benedum to test your presentation.

Schedule for Presentations

Authors will be introduced by the co-chair and they will begin their talk at the scheduled start time. 12 minutes after the start of the presentation, the session chair will stand up and walk to the front of the room. This is the sign to the authors they have three minutes to summarize their paper. At the end of the 15 minutes the session chair will announce "That is all the time we have for this presentation, are there any questions". At this point the authors' have 2 minutes to answer questions. During the question period the author for the next paper will come to the front of the room and get prepared for their presentation.
